COACHES CORNER

As we near the end of the pre season and approach the beginning of the home and away series it is a good time to look at where we stand in regard to our prospects for the year.

It is fair to say the trial form has given our recruits the chance to get used to their new teammates and the style of football played in the SANFL. Each competition around the country is different in a lot of ways and it has been good for all the new players to understand the way we want to play as well as how some of our opposition play.

We have had recruits come in from the VFL, the WAFL, country NSW, country Victoria and the Amateur league so their backgrounds are wide and varied.

The reality though is that while it is good to play some football, particularly against opposition, trial form has little bearing on where we will finish at the end of it all. I actually believe that the first game or two of the real stuff is often misleading too as coaches as well as players are still sorting it all out.

What has been evident though is that the competition will tighten again from where it has been in the last few years.

We are excited by a number of players but the younger ones are those that I would like our members to keep an eye on. Some may play senior football and some may just develop in the reserves this year but we think that Jarrad Redden, Sam Davoren, Matthew Broadbent, Chris Hall, Nathan Daniel, Nathan Rayner, Codie Hicks, Brendan Papps and Glen Dawson are a few the supporters can follow. All have shown significant improvement and all have qualities that are required at higher levels.

It is becoming even more important to develop from within with recruiting becoming an expensive past time for all Clubs, so we will be looking for more and more of our junior's to step up.

They will be given every opportunity to do so.

The next time I report to you we will have played a few games and this will give us a better chance to evaluate our chances.

VOLUNTEER VOICE

Eagles tragic Dave Morallee, commonly known as Mozza, is entering his 29th season involved with Club. Mozza, the Eagles current Team Manager, started working with the Club back in 1980 after Trevor Ryan asked him if he wanted to help.

"I didn't know exactly what he asked me to do. But I said yes because I'd supported the Club since I was a kid and was eager to help out," Mozza said.

"Over the years I've taken on a lot of different roles. Property steward, drink steward, ball steward, what ever needs to be done on the day."

"It's my job to make sure everything and everyone is ready to go. That's making sure everyone's here on time, the balls are pumped, and the team sheet is filled out. It can get pretty hectic, but I do it because I enjoy it and it helps me feel youthful."

Despite seeing plenty of footballers over the years come and go, Mozza insists he doesn't have a favourite player and tries his best to treat all boys equally. "I do my best to keep them all happy, but if one of them put a $100 note in my hand that may change," he jokes.

Mozza was recognised for his contribution to the Club when he received Life Membership in 2000. He says he was honoured to receive such an award. "It was something I wasn't expecting. It was an enjoyable moment. It was nice to be recognised for something I enjoy doing," he said.

Despite the personal honour, Mozza rates the two Eagle premierships successes as the major highlights. "The '93 premiership was special since it was Woodville West Torrens first. 2006 was just as special, after coming so close in previous years; it was brilliant to finally win." he said.

Mozza thanks wife Liz and their two daughters Laura and Kirsty for their support to allow him to work at the Club, but jokes they didn't have much choice.

Despite working at the Club for almost three decades, Mozza hopes there are plenty of more years ahead of him. "I would like to keep going for another 28 years but I don't think I'll last that long. As the old saying goes, I'm taking it one year at a time."
